City of Arlington Seeking Volunteers for Boards & Commissions

(Arlington, WA) – The City of Arlington is looking for volunteers to fill vacancies on the Parks, Arts and Recreation Commission and Library Board.

The Parks, Arts and Recreation Commission (PARC) provides support and advice to the Mayor and City Council on parks, arts and recreation issues facing the City of Arlington. Persons interested in serving on PARC must live within the urban growth area of Arlington. The Commission consists of seven members, each serving a four-year term. The Commission meets monthly in the Arlington City Council Chambers. The City currently has one vacancy to fill on PARC.

The Library Board provides support and advice to the Mayor and the City Council on planning, management, use, care, and disposition of the library's property, equipment, and physical facilities; the policies, rules, and regulations pertaining to the use of the library and its facilities, and the budget, administration, scope and quality of library resources and services provided to the City of Arlington by the Sno-Isle Regional Library system. The Board also represents the City of Arlington by advising Sno-Isle on policies for the development of the library's collection, the use of the library, and the scope and quality of services provided.

The Library Board consists of five members, each serving a five-year term. Meetings are held on a quarterly basis in the Arlington City Council Chambers. Applicants for the three vacancies on the Library Board must live within the city limits of Arlington.

If you are interested in serving on either board, you can find an application on the city's website at www.arlingtonwa.gov, at City Hall (238 N Olympic Ave), at the Airport Office (18204 59th Ave NE) or by calling 360-403-3441.
