To whom this may concern,

It is very concerning that a new galvanizing plant is proposed so close to a residential area and school. The application states that "The galvanizing process has the potential to produce hazardous waste into the environment". Myself and I'm sure many other concerned Arlington citizens would like to see a current environmental impact study completed on this project. The information contained within that study could put many peoples mind at ease or open the eyes of the applicants as to if this plan is the right fit for Arlington.

Thank you for your time,

Edward Beam
